Headline:
Cold with showers, and an ice risk Thursday night.

Today:
A frosty start to the day, with some areas seeing fog patches slow to clear. Otherwise, the day looks to be dry and cold with frequent sunny spells, then turning cloudier towards the evening with showers developing in the north. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain approach southwards, turning wintry in places. Widespread frost expected in the east, as well as ice where any showers fall onto frozen surfaces. Minimum temperature -4 deg C (25 deg F).

Friday:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow, wintry in places, linger in the morning but then weaken into the afternoon, clearing by the night. Remaining cold and turning icy overnight. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A frosty and foggy start Saturday, clearing to give sunny spells. Cloudier into Sunday, with outbreaks of drizzle. Turning more unsettled into Monday afternoon, with stronger winds and occasional rain.
